

Part 61

Many have lost the will to go on, as they face the hardest time of their life at the moment. So much has been taken away from them, and they have nothing to resort to, and as a result hope is slowly but surely fading away. This is to be expected, as this path towards enlightenment will bring so many through the abysmal darkness, and if they do not open up to helping hands from the outside, they have no way of knowing that this passage will surely lead out into the open again and into the light. For many, they will get lost in the dark and therefore render themselves unable to finish the journey in this lifetime. All hope is not lost however, as they will certainly get one more chance to fulfill their mission, but that will be left to another life in another body.

You will be well versed in this cycle of lives, and for many, you have embarked upon the last stage of this in your current sojourn here on this planet. You knew before you came into this life that now the time has come to complete your journey and fulfill your long held obligation, not only to yourself, but to the rest of creation. You all came here with a specific task in mind, and for many a generation, you have slowly but surely inched forwards towards this, the final stage of the journey. When I say "final", I refer to the fact that this is the time for all of mankind to make their last and final decision. Do I ascend together with Mother Earth in this timeline, or do I need to have another go at it, and return into a new physical body when I am ready to complete my journey? So many of you have already chosen to complete your mission, but you have done so more or less unwittingly to yourselves, as it is your soul that has made the decision, but deemed that it is mayhaps not the time to make it clear to your ego. In other words, you are well on your way towards ascension, but you may not be aware that this is indeed the time you have been waiting for all of your lives. Remember, most of you have made a long and laborious journey towards this time in space, and although you on the surface may be unaware of this, your soul has been longing for this day for eons. It knows fully well what this is all about, but you, in your conscious minds, have no way of apprehending all of the consequences of this. Therefore, you have a hard time digesting all of the challenges, as you cannot see for yourselves just how well prepared you really are for this journey. Thus, it is too easy to lose confidence, and slip into despair.

Therefore you need to be reinforced by regular injections of information and energy to keep you going, as without it you would be left stranded on a lonely shore with no salvation in sight. This help will be kept coming in all sorts of ways, both manifest and in less tangible form. You may encounter someone on your way that you will feel instantly connected to, and together you will find it much easier to navigate these difficult straits. Or you might hear a beautiful piece of music that will touch your heart so deeply it will make tears of joy and gratitude stream down your face. Or your eyes might fall upon some words in a book or on a screen that will remind you of something residing deep inside of yourself, something that you had forgotten, but now will be lifted out and never be lost again. These are all important pieces to build a strong foundation, as no one can complete this journey without a stable rock under their feet. So much is shifting and metamorphosing, it will be almost impossible to stay focused without some form of rigid support. And never forget, this support may come in so many different shapes and forms, it can be easily overlooked. Never assume anything, as this will only leave you looking in the wrong direction. Keep an open mind, and wonderful gifts of connections and synchronicity will start to appear in the most unexpected places at the most unexpected of times. Even if this is indeed the loneliest journey of them all, one that cannot be achieved without a total devotion by each and every one of you, it is one lined with helpers at every step of the way. You must choose to pick your way forwards, and it is you who have to keep putting one foot in front of another, but never fear that you do so in utter darkness and solitude. Please remember this as darkness falls on all sides, because the darkness is literally crowded with the light, and you have all the support you need to keep pushing through it.

Part 62

The days are getting ever darker on your side of the globe, but soon the days will start to lengthen again. Even if the warm days of summer seem to be very far off, they are in fact coming ever closer, much like the heralded end of the global darkness you are all residing in at the moment. Much has been said about this lightening or rather awakening process, and it must be evident by now that the need to raise an ever larger number of people from their sleep is getting more and more urgent. Hence, the dramatic events unfolding in so many parts of your little world. I use the world little to underscore the fact that even if you are geographically far away from the fray, you are all in fact closely linked together, so that what transpires in a remote part of your planet, concerns you all. Modern technology has made it almost impossible to conceal any activity and hide away evil doings behind closed doors, and so much is seeping out into the open. Both things perpetrated by private citizens, but also all sorts of discriminations condoned by governments and others in charge. Nothing can be hidden away any longer, and new and old trespasses are finally being aired in full public view.

This may seem like bad business, as you are all constantly being bombarded by tales of wrongdoing, and it seems that you as a species cannot help yourselves from acting unkindly and unjustly towards your neighbour. Nothing could be further from the truth, as you as a species are originally constructed from the same material as the rest of us, namely that of ever present love. Now the realization that you do not need to continue behaving in the dark manner that you have gotten so accustomed to will continue to grow, therefore the news you see paraded in front of your eyes every day will seem to be more and more shocking. That is because your old core is finally starting to be heard above the din of fabricated evilness, and as such you will find yourselves unable to stay silent any more. The urge to stand up and be counted will grow exponentially in the time to come, and the urge behind is it one of love, love that permeates each and every one of you, but has been kept hidden behind a cloak of mistrust and mistreatment administered by those calling themselves the leaders of the world. Their best interest is to keep fear uppermost in your minds, and when fear rules nothing else can be heard, because of the noise from the fear will drown everything else out, even the strong pull of all-encompassing love.

Now more and more of you will find, much to your amazement, that the fear will trickle away, and then nothing can hold you back ever again. At the same time, this will only act to heighten the fear in those who have already chosen to stay trapped in the old, and they will put up a harder fight than before to make sure that all of their fears will come true. In other words, they will act in ways that will galvanize the rest of you into action for the common good. Humans are a species not easily adapting to change, therefore you need a very efficient wake-up call. Many of you have heard the call already, and you have long since left the unproductive slumber you were caught up in for far too long. With your help, even more have started to rub the sleep from their eyes, and many a fogged brain have cleared sufficiently to see that what is happening now is not a disaster, even if it may have all the markings as such. On the contrary, you have all the reason in the world to celebrate the fact that freedom from fear is finally knocking on your door, so do not forget to push it wide open and step out into the fresh air that is being channeled into your atmosphere.

I am aware that the brutal birthcramps of this freedom will scare many a timid mind into thinking that the end is near, but please remember that this is what you have been led to believe by those holding you all imprisoned in their version of a perfect society, namely the kind of society that oppresses the large majority by any means possible in order to enrich a small number of people beyond all means. Their version of society is indeed coming to it's end, and the last and final battle for this will be nothing short of brutal. Just remember, they are indeed fighting a lost battle, and they have been doing so for a long time already, but they are experts at putting up a good show to make them look so much more powerful than what they really are. They are nothing but little children throwing a fit because they cannot get their way, and just like little children they will stomp their feet and throw a mighty tantrum, but apart from a lot of noise, they cannot change the outcome of this. Many will be convinced by their tantrum however, and they will continue to believe the lies and deceits they have been served by these selfsame manipulators. Therefore, they will go ever deeper into fear and act accordingly. Do not be surprised if some of them raise up in arms, but do not be surprised if they get vanquished by a swift and decisive blow. Never forget, these mislead people are also a small minority, and as long as the majority on this planet is comprised of people like you, people mostly concerned about living a decent life, they will never again be able to overpower the deep current of love starting to flow in the hearts of you all.

---

Part 63

The din of tomorrow is already starting to be heard in some corners, and it brings us much joy to behold all the pure of heart that have started to siphon into this energy. They are not many yet, but their numbers will grow ever faster as the energies of the solstice come in ever stronger for the next few days. These energies will blast open the doors to so many hearts, and they will turn many a non-believer into a believer. When we speak of believers, we do not refer to those adhering to a specific faith as ordained by your earthly spiritual leaders, nay we refer to all of those finally finding the answers within themselves. As have been oft repeated, everything you seek you will find inside, and only the timid will stay in refusal as to seeing the truth in this.

They say that the meek shall inherit the earth, but the meek are those insufficiently courageous to discover the treasure trove they have inside, and they will forever keep on believing in their own insufficiency. The brave shall indeed inherit the earth, in every sense of the word, as that defines those of you brave enough to travel all the way to the depths of your own hearts. So many of you have made that journey already, and even if you have not all completed it, you have come so far there is no turning back ever again. You are all on the threshold of discovering your magnificence, and we pay homage to you all.

Yours is a journey fraught with so many pitfalls, but do not make the mistake in assuming that if you ever fall into one, all is lost. This journey cannot be made without any seeming mishaps on the way, just remember that these so-called mishaps are always important learning points, and without these points of reference, you would never be able to reach that final destination. We wish to take this opportunity to congratulate you all for a job well done, as it is indeed important to keep reminding yourselves that each and every day counts as an important step towards the completion, even if that day seems to be inundated with bad news or intense barrages of energy. Remember, nothing is wasted on this journey, and every step you take will indeed bring you forwards, even if it seems to be a very minuscule distance at times.

Soon the sun will seem to stand still in the heavens, as the earth tilts on her axis and the days start to lengthen in the north and shorten in the south. This perpetual flow of celestial markers are of the utmost importance, as they serve as a sort of a counting down device towards that final happening. Just remember not to mistake this for a specific definition for a specific action to take place, merely as a very important confirmation that you are indeed at the right place at the right time. This year, much will happen on and around this date, and we do advise you all to look beyond the bleak future painted by your media in these selfsame days.

We have told you earlier that the darkness is most profound just before the light returns, and this year it will be more true than ever. So every care must be taken not to lose the grip on reality, namely the fact that the light is indeed returning, and it will be even stronger as a result of all of the hard work you all have been doing. Just remember to face the light, not turn your back on it, as that will be the case with many of your fellow humans. We think you will find this easy, as by now you have all been well versed in listening to your heart, and ignoring the false advices from those content to keep wallowing in the darkness. They will have their much longed for dip into that deep pool of despair, but for the rest of you, this will be the start of the bright season.

---

Part 64

Tomorrow marks a very important day in your part of the world, and many have already started to feel the holiday spirit. We predict that many will feel it even stronger than before, as there are indeed intense celestial energies coming your way this very minute. These energies will serve to heighten the emotional benefit from these days, as thousands upon thousand gather together to celebrate with their loved ones. But again, they will also serve to heighten the tension in those already precariously balancing on the edge, so in addition to all of those harmonious gatherings, there will be more of those fraught with violence as the days go by and we approach the day that marks the beginning of your calendar year. That year has already been heralded by many as the end of the world, so do not be surprised if the forementioned tension escalates as the year inevitably approaches.

You have all been taught well not to fear the year of 2012, as it does not signify the end of the world as the doomsdaysayers have been harping on for such a long time. Rather, it signifies the death of the old, and the heralding of the birth of the new. You may feel that this birth has been referred to for a very long time now, but please remember that this is indeed the year that will go down in the historybooks as the year that marks this transition for so many of you. The year you are about to complete has been an intense one on so many levels, and many will heave a sigh of relief as they tear that last day of the calendar off, and see the beautiful number of 01.01.2012 underneath.

To many, this new year has already begun, because if you tune in to the energies currently enveloping you, you will all feel the stirrings of the new and the absence of the old. In other words, there is no need to wait another week to celebrate the new year, as in every aspect than calendar-wise, it is already here. Rejoice sweet ones! You have certainly more than exceeded our expectations this year, and we wish you all a peaceful holiday season, resting in the knowledge that you have all completed the work you set out to do in this auspicious year of 2011. Remember to give yourselves ample time to rest in the upcoming days, as these new energies will certainly not be timid in announcing their arrival.

---

Part 65

For eons, mankind have been struggling to find their way back to their roots, but their struggles have not been succesful, and they have found themselves mired in an abysmal world controlled by fear and greed. Now, the time has finally come to find the way out from this labyrinth of suffering, and for many, the light at the end of that long and dark tunnel is coming ever closer. It is a joy to behold how you all literally light up at the very moment you realize that all it takes to escape this dark tunnel of drudgery, is to open up to the greatness you harbour inside of yourselves. In other words, the moment you stop giving your powers away to outside forces, then all of the shackles of the old fall away, and in a very short time it feels like they never were there in the first place. It may sound easy, but all of you can testify to the fact that it is indeed anything but, so make sure to give yourselves a wholehearted applause for all of the hard work you have accomplished already.

You have come a long way indeed, and in a much shorter time than all of us could predict. You have taken it upon yourselves to ensure that the light will once again be the master of this planet of yours, and your conviction has been strong enough to abolish the darkness to a few isolated pockets. On the surface, however, it will seem that the opposite is true, and that as never before darkness has penetrated to the very core of your fellow human beings. You must try to remember that this conviction is what benefits those still clinging to the illusion that they are the rightful controllers of this world, therefore they do anything they can to uphold appearances. To a discerning eye, or rather to a discerning heart, the truth can be seen clearly, and it differentiates greatly from what you are all presented as "news" on a daily basis. We have touched upon this subject countless times before, and we will continue to do so, as it is indeed imperative that you do not fall back to believing the propaganda these dark beings want you to digest, so that they can wrest away any fleeting hope of a better tomorrow. Some of you have become very good at this, and you behold this "outside world" as you would a piece of fiction produced to engage your emotions, especially the negative ones. To you, the real world is the one you feel so intrinsically linked with, a world filled with love and compassion, and where you interact with others of the same vibration. To an outsider, this may sound like the ideas from a deluded mind, but it is in fact just what is transpiring now.

The world as you know it has in effect split in two, where one part is set up to meet the needs of those still refusing to let go of their old and dense way of living, while on the other plane, people like yourselves, who have made a conscious choice to rise their own vibration, live a life where they feel very separated from the goings on in the "other world". Until now, you have not been able to separate yourselves entirely from this old way of living, but never doubt that within a short space of time, you will see how the anchors to your old berth is being lifted one by one, and you will feel how the lifeforces surge through you at an ever increasing speed. At the same time, those still clinging to the old will feel the heavy burden of fear only increase as the whole foundation of their society is falling apart. In other words, the gap between those already setting their sights on a loftier world and those cementing their feet firmly into the ground of the old, will only widen.

This will bring with it many challenges, as there are many of you still connected to family and friends of the latter persuasion, and you will in many ways experience the opening of a rift between you. Communication between people of different vibrations will become more and more difficult and fraught with misunderstanding, and this will bring heartbreak to many as they come to the conclusion that they will have to disengage from those that insist on pulling others down to their level. We understand that this liberation process will be a painful one for many, but we hasten to remind you all that your only priority must be to complete your own ascension. Do not get trapped into thinking that you have the responsibility of ensuring that those around you raise their levels of awareness on par with yours. If you try to do so, it will only serve to lower your own. As we have said on earlier occasions, you are to be a wayshower, not a shepherd, and it is wise to remember this in the upcoming period as there are many out there who will exhaust themselves trying to be the latter.

We are aware that for many, the sight of so much suffering around the globe will trigger a deep felt belief that this world is in many ways beyond repair. Nothing could be further from the truth, and we wish to constantly remind you of this in the days and weeks ahead. We have told you on so many occasions that the dark forces will try anything they have in their arsenal to keep people away from hope and mired in fear, so do not be surprised if there should be some very drastic turn of events in just a few days. It could be anything from a man-made escalation of violence, to something seemingly instigated by Mother Earth herself. Just remember to look beyond the screaming headlines, and keep in mind that this is only a show for the masses, a futile attempt to keep the light at bay. They will once again play straight into your hands, in other words for those sufficiently awake, it will be obvious that this is nothing more than a last-ditch attempt to turn the tide. But to no avail, as their time is slowly but surely running out, and no matter how hard they try, they will have to let go of their fervent grip on so many people's minds and hearts once and for all. Rejoice sweet ones, you are about to have your first taste of real freedom, as the upcoming year will mark the passing from the old hierarchy to the fledgling start of a new and free human race.

---

Part 66

For many, these last few days have been a struggle. The intensified energies bombarding your planet have taken their toll on body and soul, or to put it more succinctly, we would not be surprised if many of you have spent these last few days in a stupor, almost unable to do anything at all. This may have created quite a few problems for many, as they have been expected to participate fully in the celebration of this holiday season. As always, these periods of intense energydownloads always serve a very important function, and even if you might feel that the timing of this one was extremely ill fitting, it was never the less very timely and as such unavoidable. It is as always done to prepare you fully for what is to come, and in a few more hours, you will all have entered that much heralded year of 2012.

As we have told you already, for many of you 2011 is already old news, and you have started to access the energies of the new year. This may have been very obvious these last few days, as many of you have felt that time has ground to a halt, and you cannot seem to fathom the fact that the year 2011 is not over yet. You will in many ways feel like you have entered the next month, and you are somewhat taken aback by the fact that the rest of the world is still counting down to the new year. This is indeed a very good example on how your planet now serves a double function, one for those still shackled to the old timeline, and one for all of those who have bridged the gap and jumped over to the new one. In other words, even if it may feel somewhat difficult to maneuver at this time, by the end of the new year you will all swim comfortably in this new ocean of endless time, and you will be able to watch as the rest of humanity struggle to try to detach themselves from the morass they have chosen to wallow in.

It will take some time to get use to, as you will be able to fully perceive the difference not only in the perception of time itself, but also in how the same event can be experienced in two very different manners, depending if you choose to stay in the old timeline, or if you observe it from the new one. This will be a year fighting for balance dear ones, as many of you are currently straddling both worlds simultaneously, and it will take much of your energy to try to stay upright if you insist on clinging to the old timeline. In other words, the time will come when you will be forced to make a choice, and you will have to shift your weight to one side or the other. You cannot stay equally connected to both, as that will only serve to rip you apart. We will return to this subject as the new year dawns, and you will start to feel the effects from this split increasing, but for now, we will conclude by wishing you all the best for the transition. It will bring with it some surprises, and some of them might be of the celestial kind. Let us just say that the signal for a new time will be heard loud and clear by all.

---

Part 67

The times they are a changing - in more ways than one. As we have already touched upon, your sense of time is certainly changing, and all for a good reason. The timelines have converged, and for the first time, humanity can choose to immerse themselves in an entirely new timeline, unfettered by the limitation of the old one. For many of you, the new timeline has already started to be apparent, and this will of course bring with it all sorts of challenges. It is not easy to diverge from the kind of rigorous timeline you all were set up with at birth. For us, there are no such problems, because we live in a world where the concept of time is a very fluent and malleable one, and as such we have all ample experience in floating around in the space and time continuum. For you, it is a very different matter. It will be like driving a new car, were all of the controls differ in some manner from the ones you are used to, but just as you can get used to a new car fairly quickly, so too will the new concept of time ease itself into your life.

At first, the only signals that something is new will be a strong feeling that you are at odds with the way other people regard time. To you, the length of a day or the date on the calendar will seem to be out of synch with the way you perceive them, and this will only escalate as the timelines starts to move apart. In other words, the new timeline was placed as to be almost simultaneous with the old, so the disruption between the two would be small enough to enable a human being to straddle both. But now, they will be literally pulled further apart, and only those who have chosen to attach themselves to the new one will be able to perceive it. It may sound strange, but you will soon see for yourselves just how much your lives will be touched by the fact that you have become part of this new timeline, and how it will separate you even further from those still holding on to the old.

On the outside, much will seem to be the same, but your perception will alter radically, and you will see ever clearer just how much a hindrance the old timeline is for the rest of humanity. Remember, it is used to cement the feeling of helplessness, and to keep everyone trapped by the idea that they live a linear life, where birth and a certain death limits everything. As soon as you have left this old timeline behind, you will start to see just how limitless you are, and for you, time is no longer a hindrance, only an asset. This will bring about many other insights, but for now, let us just say that you will finally get to see just how little of your potential you have had access to up until now.

The diverging of the timelines will as we said impart a whole new reality on your life. It does not entail that you vanish from the surface of the earth, far from it, but you will indeed feel very distant from the so-called reality the rest of humanity still lingers in. Let us explain. As we said, there are now in effect two parallel worlds, one that contains all of those still unawakened, and one that has been set up to accommodate those that have decided to continue their ascension process. These two worlds may seem to be one on the surface, but as we have explained previously, other timelines are closely interwoven into each other, and the distance between them from a physical perspective is indeed minuscule. Therefore, you will feel that you are threading on the same ground as the rest of the people around you, but you are in effect not doing so. It is like the old world still lingers on in your field of vision, almost like a thin crust superimposed on the new world. This is because you cannot be transported to a brand new world in one fell swoop as many have expected to be, almost like the rapture described in your religious scriptures. This process is in fact almost the same, but the realities of it are nothing like the dramatic effect attributed to this by so many visionaries. It is much more of a gradual process, but rest assured that once you have taken that step across the divide and into the new, that is where you will be at home from now on. The old world will still exist, and you will be able to switch back and forth between them for quite a while yet, until the increased vibration in your own field makes the process too uncomfortable.

We are well aware that for the majority of you, this going back and forth will be very important, as you are still very much linked to the old world in many ways, either by close friends and family or other such obligations, or in many other aspects such as financially. Please remember that these connections cannot and will not be severed abruptly, and you cannot expect to be released from each and every burden that you still carry with you that are caused by these old-world connections. However, it is time to prepare yourselves for the day that they will be severed, and also time to prepare yourselves for what will take its place once you have completed the transition period. Again, timing is everything, and we are well aware that for many, a total release from all of the old shackles cannot come soon enough, but this is a process that needs to be taken in increments and cannot be forced.

What does this separation process entail? Let us give you a few examples. This is as already stated a gradual process, and for many of you, the old world and all of its connotations will already seem to be like a kind of dream, or as something you watch in fascination on the television. The state of your planet will feel like a kind of drama, put together to amuse and to engage many of the baser instincts in mankind, a place where many suffer, and peace and prosperity for all seems to be very far off. You will find that you feel more and more detached from all of this, as if it does no longer concern you, but is only a show put on for the masses. This does not mean that you will be a cold person, unable to feel compassion with the rest of mankind, far from it. No, it will only mean that you have once and for all seen through the glare of the so-called reality and seen it for what it really is: just an illusion, a real-life drama enacted by millions of people unaware that they are mere players in an endless game of power and greed orchestrated by those hell bent on amusing themselves and enriching themselves by manipulating others. You will understand that this drama has been going on for eons, and now, the time has finally come to extract yourself from it. In other words, leave the stage over to those still willing to play in that game. For you, the life will finally become real, as from now on, it is you who decide the outcome, not the puppeteers hidden behind the stage pulling all of the strings.

To many, this will sound very callous, and they cannot fathom how mankind can prosper if you let go of the belief that you can save the rest of the world if you shine enough light on it. Again, remember that your light will indeed continue to shine on the rest of humanity, but it will do so ever stronger as you have detached yourself from the drama, and have found a place on higher ground from where you will be able to shine that light wider than before. You will in other words keep on doing the job you are here to do, namely to ensure that your light grows ever brighter, so that for those still trapped in the old drama, it will be more and more distinct, and if they choose to do so, they can use your light to pick their own way off that stage, rip off the manipulators strings and step into the same freedom as you live in.

---

Part 68

Chapter 29

Today's message might be difficult to grasp for some, as we would like to delve into the scientific approach to the upcoming changes on your planet. For now, let us just begin with the fact that although your scientists have been looking hard and long, they have still to find that elusive so-called god-particle they like to refer to as the Higgs boson. Although they seem to have found traces of it already, no hard facts have been found that could describe the set-up of this little but oh so vital component of their own little fabricated theories. Make no mistake, such particles do exist, but they are in no way similar to the ones they are looking for. It is in many ways a quest for the unseen, because to a normal person's eye, nothing like this can be seen. That is not because of its minuscule size, but the fact that they have not yet learned to search for the right amounts of energy.

Let us explain. Up until now, your scientists have been probing into the nucleus of the atom, and while they have detected smaller and smaller bits inside this seemingly too small part that make up your world, they have only been able to detect certain fractions of the light that is emitted by these objects. We have referred to the fact that it is not by chance that they still refer to the unseen mass of energy spanning the whole of your universe as dark matter and dark energy, as you know fairly well by now that they are in fact not able to detect it, and rightly so. It is because they have not been allowed to detect it or measure it in any way, as this dark matter is the sole source of energy that can be utilized without ever running out. It is the original perpetuum mobile, and as such it can literally create havoc with everything known to man if this knowledge falls into the wrong hands, or maybe we should call it wrong brains. This is something not to be understood by the brain, as the brain is so limited, and it is limited for a very good reason. You humans tend to think of the brain as the seat of knowledge, wherefrom all the noble thoughts that will propell your civilization forwards comes. Nothing could be further from the truth, as the brain is only set up in order to make you function at the lowest level possible. This may sound very patronizing, but as have been oft described by us before, the knowledge the rest of us possess, is not a knowledge captured and held individually. It is a vast sea of information shared by all, for the betterment of all. However, to a corrupted mind in a human being, all knowlegde should serve one purpose only, namely to enrich oneself, preferably at the expense of all others. Vital knowledge is therefore held back, and if it can be patented and sold to the highest bidder, all the better. We speak of course in general terms here, as a human brain is also capable of creating the most beauteous examples of art and music, and also very capable of caring, nurturing and co-operating, but remember that almost all of the scourges plaguing mankind are indeed man made, and they have been set up by brains ruled by greed, not by a true quest for knowledge.

There are of course many a brave soul out there hungry for the truth, out on a quest to find a solution to all of man's problems, but do not think that the ones at the top of the food chain will ever let them find it. Or if they do so, they will be abolished and ridiculed at best, or actually terminated as the worst case. Many will have heard rumours about certain inventions already made, inventions that could, if utilized correctly, free mankind from the slavery of the addiction to fossilized fuel. But where are these inventions, you might ask. Let us just say that they are buried under tons of red tape, and the inventors themselves effectively gagged by agents who can see only too well just how bad these inventions would be for their own way of living.

Remember, oil is greasing too many wheels on your planet, and the supply and demand for oil is what makes these wheels literally og round. The whole machinery of greed is so dependent on oil, it will go to any lengths to ensure that it never ever goes out of use. If these wells run dry, so too will their supply of blood money, and their little reptilian brains cannot bear the thought of being without this steady supply of money running into their coffers at an ever increasing rate. This brings us back to the scientists trying to find in vain that ever elusive little particle, the one missing link in their well put together little hypothesis. You see, without it, the equation fails to come to a conclusion, and they are all scrathcing their heads and hoping to see further traces of it very soon. So much is invested in this quest for the holy grail of physics, and not without a just cause. It is in fact a very well put together smoke and mirror project, one that has turned so many wise heads in the wrong direction.

But wait, did we not see a smattering of heads starting to look just a fraction to the other side? Oh yes, we did! Have hope dear ones, the enlightened ones amongst you have succeeded in seeding these men and women with so much hidden knowledge, and now, that knowledge is starting to make itself heard above the din of the voices of "reason" trying to drown it out. You see, knowlegde is not something inert and devoid of life. The knowledge we refer to, the one that has been passed down from the All there is, through our esteemed comrades, by way of some of you brave and shining souls, and finally inserted into the receptive minds and hearts of a few hand-picked scientists, this knowledge has now taken root and is starting to sprout. It will grow rapidly, because it has been planted in just the right kind of fertile soil, and it will soon blossom into something so magnificent it will take your breath away.

First, it will only be whispered about in a small group of likeminded souls, because the results they are starting to see appearing on the screens and in the test-tubes in front of them is something they cannot even begin to describe. There will be doubt, and they will try again, but the results will unfailingly be the same each and every time, and soon they will have no option but to believe the unbelievable. They will shout with joy, and then the whole community will have to sit up and listen. The fruit of so much of your hard labour will be lifted up for all to see, and then the old dogmas will have to be buried once and for all. And with them, so too the seemingly never ending supply of financial runoff that has been siphoned into a few very, very deep pockets. Do not think that they will willingly forego this income, but do not think that they will be able to stop this revolution of intelligence. For this cannot be stopped.

The time has come to pull the wool from the eyes of all, and to set aside old and inhibiting thinking. You have successfully seeded the world with the knowledge we have been transmitting through you for such a long time now, and finally the results will be coming out. Not as a mere whisper from a little particle flying across a screen in CERN, but from a whole host of seemingly unconnected events taking place in laboratories all over the globe. Make no mistake, dark brains will make a ruckus and try to wrest the right to earn a living from all of these new discoveries, but unlike earlier, this will not be allowed to be copyrighted and labelled as private property. This is all for the advancement of the human race, and it can only be utilized as such. If it is tried to be taken by force, it will retaliate in a very strong manner indeed, and it will literally blow up in the face of those trying to make a profit at the expense of others.

We know this will sound fanciful to many of you, and that you will in many ways be looking in vain for this in the headlines in the days and weeks to come, but believe us when we say that a new dawn has arrived, and with it, a new kind of intelligent human. The kind that is willing to stake everything they have on something they know will be of value to all, and they will not be persuaded to give it up for a handfull of gold. For the first time in modern history, there will be truly uncorrupted minds making literally mind blowing discoveries, and it is precisely because they are uncorrupted that they will be allowed to make them.

It is not by accident that this happens now, as only now have you managed to raise the level of awareness to such a degree that you will be allowed to tap into the ever present bank of knowledge referred to as the dark matter by your scientists. But what they will find, is further from the darkness than anything you have ever seen. Only the purest of minds, with the purest of hearts will be allowed access, and anyone sailing under a false flag will immediately be banned from the proceedings. Thus, you can rest assured that anything that will be developed in this process will never be used in a detrimental way, and it can therefore not harm neither you nor your precious little planet. Welcome to the future dear ones, it has just started to become so much brighter in here. We hope you can all see the light seeping in from behind the curtains, and we know it is only a matter of time before you decide it is indeed time to pull them away for good and let the light literally flood in.

---

Part 69

Sometimes, mankind makes a leap into the unknown, and this year, the time has come to do just such a leap of faith. To many, these next few months will be more than daunting, and rightly so, as they will entail so much change in such a short amount of time. You have in many ways been very well prepared for this, but as soon as this show gets on the road for real, many will regress and turn back into fear. We do not condemn any of you if you should be so inclined, we just state the fact that this journey is indeed not for the faint of heart, and this will be very obvious in the next few weeks.

So much has already been swept away in the increasing currents, but now you stand before a veritable storm of change, and this will make many a solid-looking individual lose their footing. As oft repeated, this is not a warning, take it more as good advice, and be prepared for absolutely anything to happen in this upcoming period. Many have already shared their thoughts on what you have ahead of you, but so much has missed it's mark. That is easy to understand, as you are in so many ways travelling into uncharted terrain. To make any sort of an educated guess as to what lies ahead is near to impossible for a mere mortal, as your brain is well conditioned to only take into fact parables you know already. In other words, you cannot even begin to fathom something so monumentally different from the way of living you currently have, therefore you will have a very, very hard time trying to second-guess what it will change into.

This may sound very ominous, but the fact is that your lives are about to be turned upside down in every sense of the word, and the outcome of all of this change will be very positive indeed. And the changes we refer to are not some superficial brush-up work being done to make this planet of yours into some semblance of a better place, no, it is indeed a total makeover, to use a phrase you might be familiar with from one of your tv-shows. In other words, expect wonderful, as wonderful is what you will get, but not before so much of the old debris will have to be swept away in a veritable flood of incoming light. We have said so before, but it needs repeating: this cleansing process will be thorough indeed, and painfully so for many, but it is indeed inevitable, and it is important that you prepare yourselves in the best way you can.

We have already gone into some details concerning the parallel timelines that have been placed upon your planet, and during this cleanup process, they will really come into play in more ways than one. As you know so well by now, the time has come to make a definitive choice as to which timeline you will set your future on, and we counsel you to choose wisely. Remember, mere words does not entail that you have made a choice, it is the voice inside of you that will decide if you will continue to stick around in the old timeline, or if you are willing to take this leap of faith and connect your essence with the new. It might sound as an easy thing to do, but remember that your soul and your ego might not have battled it out just yet, and you might have to take that final stand sooner than you thought. In other words, this is not like choosing a new car or a new job, this is about choosing to listen to your soul, or forever stay trapped inside the world dictated by your ego. And never forget, the ego fears nothing so much as being obliterated by a strong soul, therefore it will do anything to make you think it has given up.

So many have been tricked into thinking that they have finally been able to remove any last vestiges of that old and insistent voice inside, only to find themselves still trapped in old patterns of behavior, set up to inhibit them from finding their own powers. Trust yourself, because if you go deep inside, you will find the truth in this, and if necessary, you will find the strength to sever the connection to the old once and for all. This might sound like old advice, but believe us when we say that never has it been more appropriate, because now the time has finally come for boarding the train for those of you brave enough to step into the new.

---

Part 70

Today is an important day indeed, as it will mark the passage into a new realm for so many of you. Let us explain. Together, you have made it possible for us to speed up the incoming doses of energy, as you have all been willing to absorb so much of the foregone ones at such a rapid rate. This was by no means evident, and we do salute you all for this achievement. In other words, it is yet again time to step up the incoming doses, and in effect bombard you with so much new information, it will indeed take some time for you all to assimilate. We hear the groans of discomfort already, and rightly so, as these energies can and will make their mark on your physical bodies. As always, the discomfort certainly outweighs any detrimental effect, as despite all of the aches and pains they might cause, they do not do you any harm in any way. Still, that will probably only be a small consolation for those of you already under the weather so to speak. We know that you are more or less used to these relentless barrages by now, but we will as usual give you some well deserved reminders that they are for your own good, even if your physical bodies might protest loudly at this.

As we have already mentioned, this marks the passage into the next step of this process, so it is wise to take some time to digest the fact that much is changing around you, and inside you for that matter. This is by no means news to any of you, but we think you will see much evidence of these heightened energies both near and far. In other words, expect to see some very interesting headlines appearing in the news presently, and do not be surprised if they are of a very dramatic kind. Remember, humankind is in the last throes of birthing into a new timeline, and as such, those still trying to cling to the old will throw up a might ruckus in order to stear your focus away from this change. As always, fear is their chosen weapon, and once again they will use it in any way they can in order to frighten you all back into the ranks. So remember to hold your heads high and keep your noses above the stench they will emit in order to obscure the fact that for many of you, the old world has already lost it's grip on you. If you succumb and lower yourselves to their level, the climb back up will be a very, very difficult undertaking indeed, so best stay aloft in any way you can.

---